Fuselage/Vertical Tail Bulletin:

July 1, 2016

Product: Radian XL 2.6m BNF Basic (EFL5550) Fuselage/Vertical Fin

Issue: The fuselage/vertical fin may be loose (near the back/tail end of the fuselage).

What To Do: If there is no colored sticker located on either the outside of the product box near the UPC/barcode or on the bottom of the center wing panel, and if you find that the fuselage/vertical fin is loose and twists easily, perform the steps listed below.

Required: Thin CA (Cyanoacrylate) glue (odorless/foam-safe CA and the use of accelerator is not recommended), a hobby knife, Phillips screwdriver and flat head screwdriver Do not use Accelerator and give the glue time to fully cure before reassembly.

1. Use a Phillips screwdriver to remove the plate on the right side of the vertical fin.
2. Expose the black colored stiffener tube using a hobby knife to remove any white glue from the fuselage's right side slot (below the vertical fin).
3. Use a hobby knife to carefully cut the joint between the fuselage and the fiberglass stiffener plate (bottom of the fuselage). Cut all the way to the stiffener tube.
4. Use a flat head screwdriver to spread the joint between the fuselage and the plate. Apply a thin layer of CA inside the joint so it 'wicks' around the stiffener tube.
5. Apply a thin layer of CA in the slot on the right side of the fuselage and around the end of the stiffener tube. Ensure that no glue comes into contact with the elevator pushrod. Verify that the vertical fin is properly aligned before the glue sets/dries.
